

Small quake occurs south of Fort Worth

Written by From the Associated Press
Friday, 06 July 2012 11:27

BURLESON, Texas (AP) — Authorities have reported a small earthquake south of Fort Worth.

The U.S. Geological Survey says a magnitude 2.7 earthquake occurred just before 8:30 a.m. Friday. The quake occurred about 10 miles south of Burleson.

A magnitude-2.7 earthquake is among the smallest generally felt by people.

Dozens of small earthquakes have occurred in that region in recent weeks.